

FAMILY OF 12 GIVEN SHELTER AFTER FIRE DAMAGES HOME

Home of Benjamin H. Harman Considerably Damaged By Threatening Blaze

FOUR ROOMS BURNED

Family Loses Furniture, Money and Some Clothing

A threatening fire yesterday afternoon at about 1:30 burned four rooms of the first floor of 403 Washington street and was just about to break through into the second floor and spread into the house adjoining, when firemen brought the blaze under control. The loss on property and contents is estimated roughly by Chief Clifford Hagerman at $1400. The property is owned by Benjamin Silber and the tenant was Benjamin H. Harman.

An oil heater in the kitchen of the Harman home is blamed for the blaze. The stove, it is believed, exploded and threw oil over the area of the room. The flames then spread rapidly into a shed in the rear and into the dining room and another room adjoining it. The flames ate their way into a closet, above which was an air chamber to the second floor and it was here that the firemen conquered them.

The four rooms on the first floor of the Harman residence along with the contents were considerably burned. The woodwork was charred and generally damaged.

Dense smoke filled the Harman home and also the one adjoining, occupied by Mrs. Sadie Fenton, Pond and Washington streets.

A sum of money in a wallet belonging to Mrs. Harman was consumed by the blaze. The flames were just about to reach the Fenton place when firemen gained control.

Mrs. Harman, who was in the room next to the kitchen at the time that the fire started, was informed of the blaze by her four-year-old daughter, Jean. The child had been lying on the floor in front of the oil heater, coloring pictures in a book. She was there when the stove backfired. Jean ran into the next room and told her mother that there was a fire in the kitchen.

Mrs. Harman grabbed the child and then summoned help.

Most of the furniture on the first floor was ruined and clothing and wearing apparel on the second floor was saturated with smoke.

There are 12 in the Harman family, and Benjamin Jr., a son, was asleep on the third floor when the blaze started.

The family has been taken in to-morrow.

Prior to the arrival of that day a platform is to be extended around the pulpit, and the board of directors has decided to purchase a curtain for installation in the junior department.

Members of the junior choir of the Wycombe Baptist Church gave a surprise shower in the church for Mrs. John H. Johnson, the director. Mrs. Johnson was presented a beautiful lamp.

In the annual contest sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, "The High School News," Doylestown high school publication, was announced as a distinguished award winner in the senior high school printed newspaper division for enrollment of 301 to 800 pupils.

The youthful Doylestown journalistic sharpshooters picked off second place, red ribbon honors, in what Joseph M. Murphy, director of the organization termed "one of the stiffest competitions ever held, reflecting a tremendous upsurge of patriotic feeling in various divisions."

"The Nockamixon News Reels," student publication of the Nockamixon school, Revere, also won second, red ribbon honors in the division for high school printed news magazines.

"The George School News" of George School, Newtown, was awarded third place, white ribbon honors in the division of private secondary school printed newspapers.

Reveal German "Subs" Range Western Atlantic

Washington, Mar. 18—Prime Minister Churchill today disclosed that German submarines and battleships in force have ranged far west to "the America side" of the Atlantic Ocean and already have claimed English-bound merchantmen sailing without convoy.

The Prime Minister's disclosure came coincident with his announcement that three German U-boats have been destroyed by Britain's armed forces, the largest bag for a single day since October 13, 1939, a few weeks after the war began.

"Not only German U-boats but German battle cruisers have crossed to the American side of the Atlantic," Churchill said at a luncheon in honor of the newly arrived American ambassador John G. Winant.

"They have already sunk some of our independently routed ships not sailing in convoy. They have sunk ships as far west as the 42nd meridian longitude."

The position given by Churchill is about 600 miles east of Newfoundland. Earlier, in Washington, reports had arisen that a long-range German submarine was cruising westward to ambush and sink munitions-laden ships bound for Britain a few miles off the Atlantic seaboard.

GIVES VIEWS ON THE WAR SITUATION

Chairman May of House Military Affairs Committee Gives Interview

IF GERMANY WINS?

(Note: What is the condition of national defense? Is this nation going to war? These and many other questions that are uppermost in the minds of Americans today have been put to the four top defense experts in Congress by William K. Hutchinson, chief of the Washington Bureau of International News Service. The following is an interview with Chairman Andrew May of the House Military Affairs Committee and is the first in a series of four.)

By William K. Hutchinson (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18—(INS)—Chairman Andrew Jackson May, of the House Military Affairs Committee, today declared that millions of American citizens will "have to die" to defeat Hitler, if Germany succeeds in crushing Britain.

Representative May, a Kentucky Democrat, envisions a war to the finish between Germany and the United States if Britain falls. He asserted that "there will be no peace as long as Hitler casts his shadow across the world."

May has complete access to all War Department secrets. He has introduced and managed the House enactment of every Army expansion since 1938.

The Kentucky representative predicted expenditure of billions upon billions of national dollars on national defense, even if Britain should defeat Germany. A British victory, he explained, will result only from a "long hard pull" in which American industrial production will finally enable the British to overpower Hitler.

"How is our preparedness program getting along?" he was asked.

How Times Have Changed!

(By "The Stroller")

A prominent Bristol man who recently visited Bristol high school, could not refrain from commenting on the changes of the last quarter century.

"When I attended Bristol school a group of us formed what was known as 'The Swastika Club,'" he commented. "It wouldn't do very well today to have such a name."

"I also remember that we did a little dancing, that was until we heard one of the school directors report to the board that he had read of where dancing had actually taken place in one high school in an adjoining state. We decided we had better stop dancing lest it also reach the ears of that or one of the other directors."

MOTHER AND 9-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER LOSE THEIR LIVES IN EARLY MORNING FIRE WHICH RAZES THEIR SMALL FRAME BUNGALOW AT NEWPORTVILLE

Mrs. Laura Tompkins, 44, and Daughter, Joy, 9, Victims of Early Morning Blaze—Two Other Children Escape, Fleeing in Night Clothes Over Frozen Fields

Honor Niece Upon Her Third Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Johnson, McKinley street, entertained on Saturday afternoon in honor of their niece, Elanna Louise Knoch, Sunnyside, L. I., who was three years old.

The decorations were pink and green. Favors were green baskets filled with candies, and miniature candlesticks with pink candles. A birthday cake with three candles was used as a table centerpiece. Refreshments were served to: Eileen, Charles and Lawrence Murray, Bernadine Gunning, Mrs. Alfred Murray, Mrs. Robert Moore, Bristol; Miss Anne Harris, Burlington; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Knoch, Sunnyside, L. I.

Flames fanned by a March wind of gale-like proportions, brought death to a mother and her nine-year-old daughter, early this morning, when their 1 1/2-story frame bungalow on Grove-land avenue, Newportville, was destroyed. A daughter of 18 years and a son, aged 12, escaped, fleeing in scant night clothing and bare-foot, over frozen ruts to the homes of neighbors.

The victims are: Mrs. Laura Tompkins, aged 44; and her daughter, Joy, aged 9 years.

A scarred chimney, and three charred steps which had lead to the front porch, are all that stand today amidst a mass of blackened ruins—mute evidence of the tragedy of the night of terror for a family of four.

Hysterical when he reached the home of a neighbor, John Tompkins, aged 12 years, the son and brother of the victims, pleaded for aid, when no human could give aid, and when all attempts were futile. Crying that her mother needed her, 18-year-old Gladys, who was finally taken by neighbors to the home of her fiancé, asked to be taken back to the scene so she could help her mother.

But those who had seen the flames sear the sky as they enveloped the four-room home just after the two young folks escaped, knew at once that nothing could be done for the mother and child trapped in the seething and twisting mass.

COMMITTED TO PRISON; CHARGED WITH $50 THEFT

Walter Matthews, Phila., Has Hearing Before Justice At Langhorne

THEFT IN BENSALEM

LANGHORNE, Mar. 18—A young man of 27 years, Walter Matthews, N. 21st street, Philadelphia, who is charged with burglary, was committed to the county prison in Doylestown following a hearing before justice of the peace, Daniel M. Krouse, Langhorne.

The accusation against Matthews is that of stealing approximately $50 from the cash register at the gasoline station operated by William Listcoe, near City Line, Bensalem Township.

Listcoe's suspicions lead to the arrest of Matthews shortly after the theft.

It is stated that Matthews spent Thursday night in one of the cabins at the gasoline station. While the attendant was about his duties outside the station about nine o'clock in the morning he saw Matthews enter the building. He was just in time to see the man leave the building by the rear door and, becoming suspicious, he op-

Speakers and Doers

Washington, March 17.

IF, as reported in Time magazine, one of the first questions asked by Mr. Roosevelt of his friend Mr. Hopkins upon his return from England was this: "Who writes Churchill's speeches for him?" then it was not a very nice question. Because no one before had ever suggested that any body ever wrote anything for Mr. Churchill.

ON the contrary, his pre-eminent ability to express his thoughts and feelings is so widely known and generally recognized that there has been universal acceptance that every word he utters is his own.

Certainly no one who has ever known Mr. Churchill could doubt it. The Roosevelt question is illuminating for two reasons. First, it reveals an admiration for the Churchill speeches, which nearly everyone who has heard or read them shares; second, it indicates a conviction that all public men have ghost writers. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt is judging Mr. Churchill by himself, which, in this particular, is a mistake.

IT is well known that Mr. Roosevelt always has had large literary assistance in the preparation of his public utterances. No one, of course, suggests that the ideas are not his own; that the language does not reflect his views, or that he does not himself make changes. But the phraseology, the writing and the choice of words are not his own. These are—and have been—supplied by a variegated number of talented aides. In the early days

Prompt A-rival of Fire Fighters Saves Church

Prompt action on the part of neighbors who used hand extinguishers, coupled with the quick arrival of William Penn Fire Company, of Hulmeville, on Sunday morning, are credited with saving the Bensalem Presbyterian Church, located on Bristol Road, Bensalem Township, and believed to be one of the oldest church structures in lower Bucks County.

The damage is believed to be between $50 and $100, it being confined to the chimney section, and the section over the window. The firemen arrived within five minutes, states Mrs. Robert Reed, who sent in the alarm, and their arrival was just in time to save the shingle roof from igniting, the roof having been placed last year.

The fire in the church stove had been built by Mrs. Reed at about 9:30. Shortly after 10:30, while Sunday School was in session, the pastor, David Kain, Mrs. John Vansant and Mrs. Emma Dixon, discovered the blaze. Smoke had filled the room before Sunday School was called, but thinking it was because of a fresh fire, the windows had been raised for a time. As the group sat there they heard the cracking of flames. Mr. Kain, securing a broom, knocked a piece of plaster loose from the section near chimney where the smoke was then emanating, and flames burst forth.

Joseph Groner and Robert Whitfield, neighbors, secured hand extinguishers, to keep the blaze under control until arrival of the firemen. The 300-gallon tank wagon of Hulmeville Company was used effectively.

Mrs. Reed, arriving just after discovery of the blaze, telephoned for aid.

Those familiar with the fire of 1906, which gutted the church, and left only the stone walls standing, contrasted the fire of that day, with the one on Sunday. In 1906 horses had to be taken from stables, harnessed, and the two-mile run made over country roads to the scene. On Sunday last the trip by motor truck was made in less than five minutes. The church was re-built in 1907.

The blaze is believed due to a defective flue.

THE FIRST MILLION

Announcement by the War Department that the United States now has 1,003,500 officers and enlisted men in the Army evokes mingled emotions. There is a certain feeling of security in the knowledge that more than a million soldiers are ready to defend their country if necessary. There is also a pang of regret that events abroad and the ambitions of a few men should compel Americans to take measures not of their own choosing.

Compared to the huge forces of Germany and Russia, the United States' strength seems small indeed. But in modern warfare it is not so much numbers that count, as military skill and mechanized equipment. Only aggressor nations, picking fights on many fronts, need the millions of men that the dictator nations have in active duty or in reserve. All told, Russia is believed to have 11,000,000 men on call; Germany, 5,000,000, all on active duty, and Italy close to 8,000,000.

Even Hitler and Mussolini, however, are not resorting to mass offensives such as took the lives of hundreds of thousands in a single World War battle. The entire strategy of war has been changed by new weapons, with a resultant decrease in field casualties.

By July 1 the United States hopes to have nearly 1,500,000 men in military service. New contingents of conscripts will be called up regularly. At the end of the year, if the war continues but does not threaten to involve the United States directly, the terms of the first drafted men will expire and others will take their places.

In an emergency, the nation will have an increasing number of seasoned soldiers on which to draw. Under conditions at the beginning of the last war, the nation will be prepared, both with trained men and with an arsenal of modern weapons.

Hitler has forced this upon America. Had not his insatiable ambition led him to break one solemn agreement after another, there would be no war. Until the very day Poland was invaded, negotiation on the basis of even his maximum demands might have kept the peace. But Hitler's maximum demands one day became the next day's minimum demands. Thus he long ago destroyed every base for a negotiated peace.

The only course left for the United States is to train her young men thoroughly and to equip them completely. The nation is rapidly progressing toward that goal.

STEEL ORDERS

Unusual news is abroad in the land to the effect that the steel mills in the United States will have a sell-out by May 1, that is to say the mills then will have on hand all the orders they can handle for the remainder of the year.

The steel year is divided into quarters. The first quarter is now closing with output standing at 97 per cent of productive capacity. The orders for the second quarter make certain the maintenance of this rated production. The third quarter is filling rapidly and orders for the fourth quarter are now coming in.

Steel is not to be rationed at present but government defense materials orders are being given priority and some of the private business is finding that delivery will be delayed. Included are builders of freight cars.

A "Three-C" Favorite

—By Frances Lee Barton—

"C.C.C." may stand for a certain company of civilians to you, but these initials also designate chocolate chip cookies — new cookies made from ingredients always on hand. Just the thing for the lunch-box, that evening "snack" or to nibble on when hungry. Yes! And just the thing to mail in quantity to boys away from home — whether in a C.C.C. camp or one of our newest military training centers where home-made cookies are sure to disappear the instant they are displayed.

Chocolate Chip Cookies

1 package semi-sweet chocolate; 1/2 cup butter or other shortening; 1/2 cup granulated sugar; 1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed; 1 egg, well beaten; 1 1/2 cup sifted cake flour; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 teaspoon soda; 1/2 cup chopped nut meats; 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cut each small square of chocolate in 4 to 6 pieces. Cream butter, add sugars gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and mix well. Sift flour once, measure, add salt and soda, and sift again. Add flour in two parts and mix well. Add cut chocolate, nuts, and vanilla, and mix thoroughly. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet 2 inches apart. Bake in moderate oven about 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 50 cookies.

Today's Quiet Moment

—O—

(By Howard L. Zepp, Th. M.)

"If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature." Make us aware of the utter unreality of a Christian experience without a Christian faith in Thee, in Thy reality, availability, benevolence, and adequacy. Aware, too, that Christian faith has no reality without a Christian philosophy of life that determines our attitudes toward Thee, ourselves, and others. And that no philosophy of life can be Christian without a Christian hope for the world, based on a belief in the ultimate triumph of righteousness. Amen.

GRAND THEATRE

If you want to laugh long, loud and often, take a tip and don't fail to see Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn and James Stewart in "The Philadelphia Story," the comedy of the year, which showed last night at the Grand Theatre. It presents a dazzling new Hepburn as a comedienne of the first water, with versatile Grant and Stewart as her gay companions in a picture that is fresher, wittier and brighter than any of recent memory.

From the moment Grant pushes Miss Hepburn in the face and walks out to become her ex-husband, the film moves with fast paced, breezy action, punctuated at intervals with surprise laughs, because this is a picture that follows none of the familiar formulas.

The setting is a Philadelphia home of the socially elite, and Miss Hepburn plays a girl of high ideals who has no tolerance for human frailties, particularly in a husband. That's why she gets rid of Grant. He has a few faults. When Miss Hepburn picks a second husband, she chooses a stalwart man of the people, played to the hilt by John Howard. Grant, realizing that she is making a mistake, causes a sensation by returning for the wedding. He brings with him Stewart, a reporter for a keyhole magazine, and Ruth Hussey, Stewart's girl friend.

Warns More Nations Are On Subjugation List

Washington, Mar. 18.—Warned by Secretary of State Hull that several more nations "are on the list for immediate seizure and subjugation" by totalitarian powers, the House appropriations committee today approved expenditure of $7,000,000 to make America the arsenal of democracies.

The measure carrying out aims of the lease lend bill was immediately reported to the House for debate. Democratic leaders predicted overwhelming passage tomorrow, despite bi-partisan opposition to the appropriation and a drive to slash the funds to $2,000,000 or $3,000,000,000.

Reports of hearings on the bill before a sub-committee were released and included official statements that most of the money will be spent in the next 15 months, and that a huge ship-building program is embraced in the aid plan.

Emphasizing speed and recalling his first endorsement of the lease lend bill Jan. 15, Hull said in the hearings—"During the two months that have elapsed, other areas have been added to those overrun by the brutal forces of conquest and subjugation. Several more are on the list, and upon the seas the menace of death and disaster has grown.

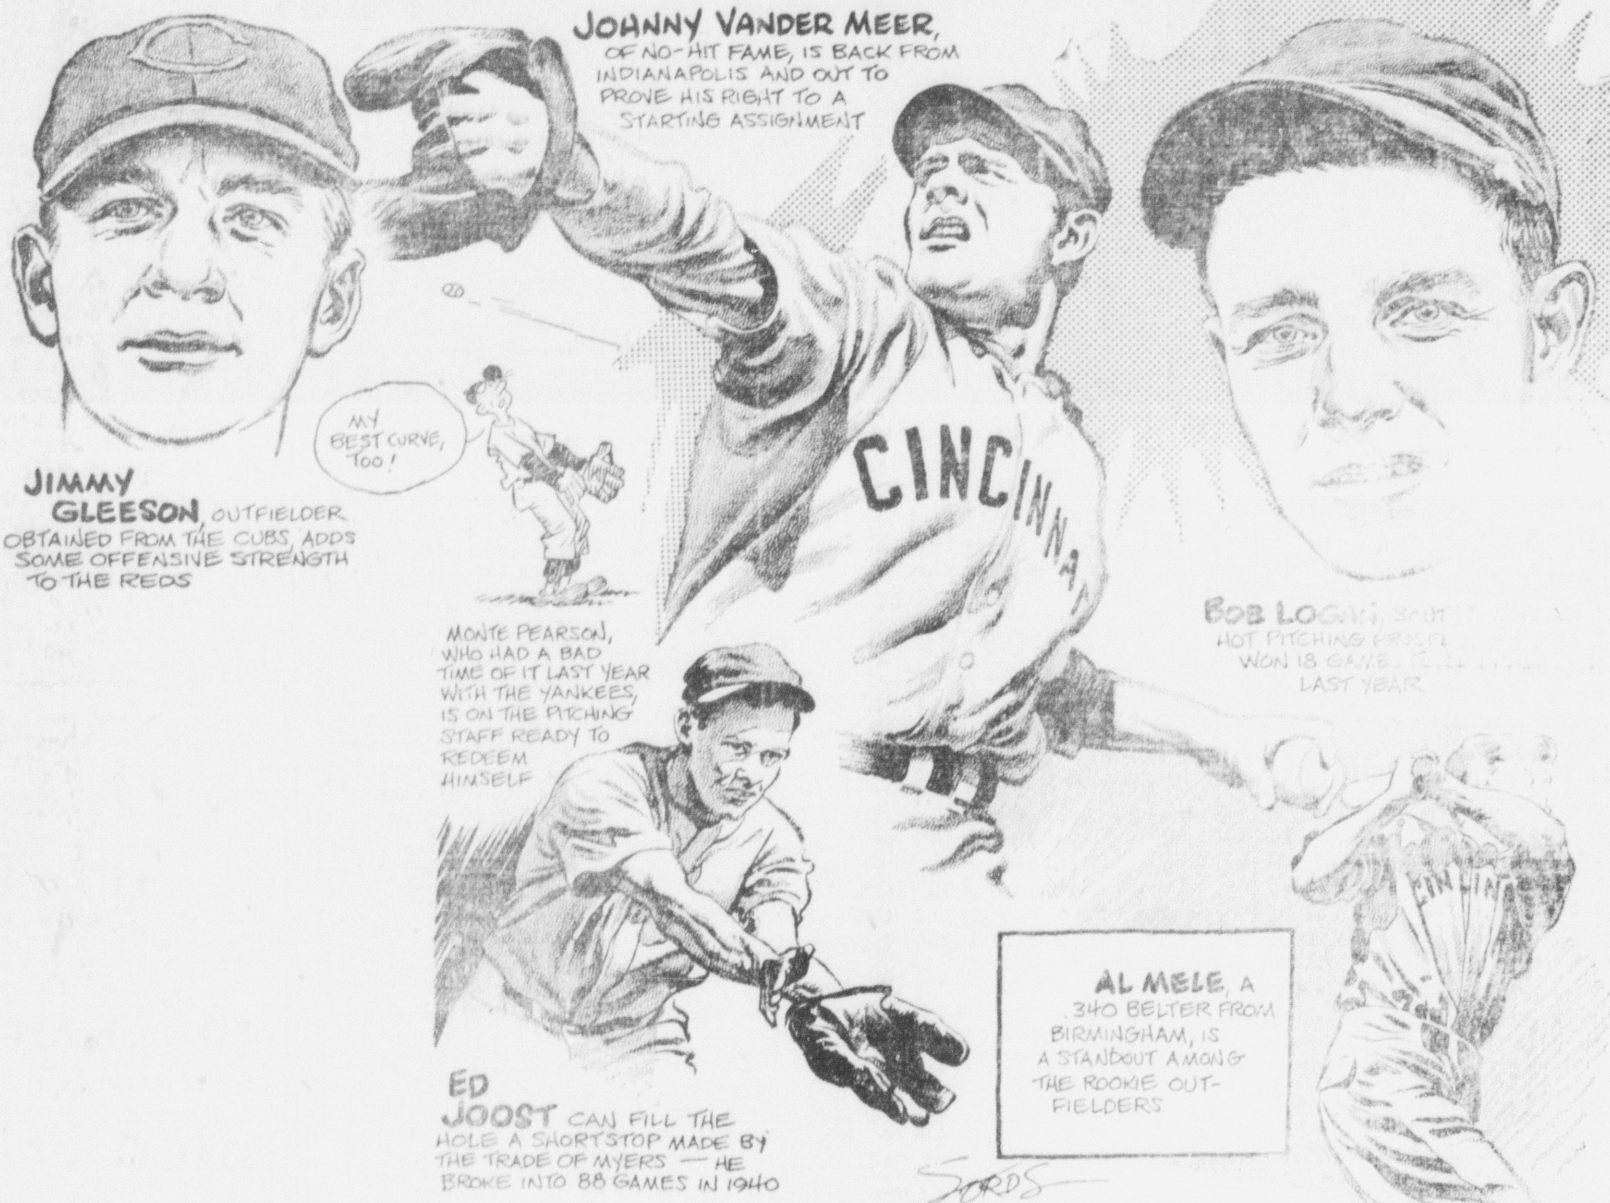

"This country by now," said Hull, "should have no longer any illusions as to the nature of the magnitude of the dangers which confront us."

Mother and 9-Year-Old Daughter Lose Their Lives In Early Morning Fire engine into action, the machine breaking down before reaching the spot. However, firemen continued afoot. Al though they saw the futility of saving the structure, even if water could have been secured, they nevertheless did all possible toward comforting the two survivors, and when the flames cooled sufficiently, were able to take from the smoldering ruins the bodies of the mother and child. Also lost in the fire was the family's pet dog. Firemen state that the dog's body was found near that of Mrs. Tompkins; while the body of little Joy was a distance away.

So upset were the two who escaped, that they were not definitely sure of events which occurred in rapid succession when they were first aroused. It is presumed that Joy discovered the fire, being awakened either by the crackling of the flames or the smell of smoke, and then called to her mother, Mrs. Tompkins, it is said, aroused Gladys and John. Whether she pushed them toward the window of the attic room, with instructions to jump to safety from the roof; or whether she pushed them toward the stairs, is a matter of question; but the two did miraculously reach safety.

John reached the Davis home, about a half-block away, clad only in a pair of slacks, and a thin undershirt. Gladys was clad only in pajamas, and a thick jacket she had evidently grabbed. Both of her garments were scorched by the flames.

Mrs. Tompkins is the mother of five children. Her two older children reside elsewhere. She secured work one week ago at the State Hospital for the Insane at Byberry, and commuted to her employment daily. Gladys is unemployed, John is a student at Maple Shade school; and Joy, the little victim attended Newportville school. The family, who at one time lived in Kensington last fall, Mrs. Tompkins' husband, Theodore, did not live at the Newportville address.

The house was owned by Charles Goodbred. It was built about 10 years ago. The cause of the blaze is undetermined. The family depended on small stoves for heating purposes. It is said there was located in the structure a kitchen cook stove; a heating stove of the "radio" type, and a small oil stove which the family was in the habit of carrying into the attic each night, upon retiring.

The Pennsylvania Motor Police from Oxford Valley barracks, who were summoned, were aided in getting the bodies, by the following: Charles Goodbred, Sr., Charles Goodbred, Jr., William Vandegriff, Fred Math, James Muth, Barton Houck.

"The roof caved in a short time after we saw the flames," stated the Davises who had taken John into their home. It is the general belief that the fire started on the first floor.

The survivors, Gladys and John, were cared for at the home of friends during the night. Shortly after the fire, Gladys was taken to the home of her fiancé, James McFadden, Magnolia Road, but later was removed to the home of friends near Newportville. Mr. McFadden stated that he had visited at the Tompkins home last evening, and when he left at 10:40 everything was all right.

Mrs. Pauline Pew, a daughter of Mrs. Tompkins, arrived at Bristol municipal building this morning at 10:30, searching for the bodies of her mother and sister; and also seeking information as to the whereabouts of her sister, Gladys, and brother, John. Mrs. Pew is also employed at the state hospital at Byberry. Although the sister and brother had been cared for by friends during the night, Mrs. Pew as well as others, had difficulty in learning where they had stayed. Numerous calls over a period of time, failed to reveal their whereabouts.

Mrs. Pew was accompanied by Miss Helen Stapleton, South Langhorne, a friend.

Upon the arrival of Mrs. Pew in Bristol she at once contacted Chief of Police Linford J. Jones, who was endeavoring to assist her in locating her father and also the brother and sister who escaped from the fire which claimed their mother and sister.

Mr. Tompkins, the father, is employed in a Philadelphia department store and word was left for him upon his return to the store to contact the Bristol police.

Paroles were granted to Stanley Mikolajczyk and Henry A. Ziura, of Trenton. They served their minimum sentences of 4 months to 2 years. The charge was larceny and receiving stolen goods.

Joseph Kelly, Newportville, father of eight children who served a minimum sentence of one month for drunk-driving, was granted a parole.

Parole petitions of Leonard Prusko and Frank Miele, Trenton, were continued until the applicants can get a letter from a prospective employer. They were sentenced to 4 months to 2 years for larceny and receiving stolen goods.

James Nocido, Bristol, was granted a parole for the remainder of his maximum term on condition that the costs be paid, $50 down and $20 a month.

Nocido will be on parole until May 11, 1941.

In all the cases in which paroles were granted, Horace E. Gwinner, probation officer, was placed in charge of those granted a parole.

In some cases where prisoners were engaged in useful work at the Bucks County Prison, the Court took such services into consideration in granting paroles.

ened the cash register and found the money missing.

By that time, it is alleged, Matthews was about to drive away in the automobile, but the attendant succeeded in getting the license number of the car, and a short time later the ownership was traced to Matthews.

Members of the Oxford Valley sub-station of the Pennsylvania Motor Police were informed, and privates Phillips and Jones went to Philadelphia, where they took the suspect into custody. He was returned here, and during the hearing before it is said, signed a confession. Justice Krouse directed that Matthews be held for the grand jury.

porarily by friends and neighbors. Mrs. Harman suffered a severe nervous attack and was taken with her two youngest children to the home of Charles Bassett, Pond street. She and the two children are still at the Bassett home.

Mrs. Harman knocked on a window in the rear of the Fenton house. Mrs. Luther Hildendorf responded and ran through the Fenton house into the street yelling "fire."

Joseph Burton, janitor at the Washington street school, pulled the fire alarm at the box in front of the school house. Firemen donned smoke masks to enter the place.

After fighting the blaze for some time, firemen got a dose of the fumes from an electric refrigerator. The fumes were so intense that the firemen broke out a window so as to get air into the room. The fumes, ventilated through the broken window, made spectators on the outside cough and choke.

31 To Graduate From National Farm School

what they have learned in their three-years' training course at The National Farm School.

The school, founded in 1896 by the late Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, of Philadelphia, provides the opportunity for city youths who seek a vocation that offers clean, healthful living in the country, with some measure of independence, to one frequently quite unstable and with little opportunity for individual, creative effort. This was the comment made by the school's resident president, Dr. Harold B. Allen, who is an authority on agricultural education and rural life. Previous to assuming administration of the Farm School, Dr. Allen had been for over 12 years director of education for Near East Foundation in Greece, Albania and other Far Eastern countries.

Located at Farm School, Bucks County, the school includes over 1,000 acres within its boundaries. Young men between 17 and 21, of sound health, and average intelligence, who hold a high school diploma and come well recommended as to character and citizenship are eligible for admission. A limited number of scholarships are available for the new term which begins this spring. Through a special arrangement high school seniors may enter the course in June, immediately after their high school graduation.

Gives Views On The War Situation

ticularly as relating to ample production of planes and other mechanical equipment, such as tanks, guns, etc., that confronts the War Department under the present program, is more difficult than the best of our experts first realized," May replied.

"But notwithstanding that, we have made progress. In my judgment, the production capacity of our industry by June 30th will be up to the point where we can begin to fulfill our defense program. It depends on how much the British are going to get under the British aid bill. It will have to be increased to adequately supply both our own and British defense needs."

Q. "Do you think that our productive capacity can be increased rapidly enough to supply the British with essentials to success in this war?"

A. "Undoubtedly this war will be decided by industrial production. He who produces the most planes, tanks, guns and other equipment will win the end. We have to increase ours far more than at present."

Q. "What do you think is in prospect for this country in the next two or three years?"

A. "We are going to have a long hard pull and we are going to have to spend billions and billions and build up our Army and Navy and prepare for any eventuality."

Q. "Do you think we are going to get into the war in an active way?"

A. "We are trying to stay out of the war by supplying the British, the Chinese, and the Greeks. We are paying and praying for safety by supplying guns, planes and ammunition to them. We are that close to war. It depends upon what Hitler does."

Q. "What would happen if Hitler won the war?"

A. "We would have to fight him if he defeats the British. There will be no peace as long as Hitler casts his shadow across the world. We would have to fight to the death. It would mean millions of Americans would have to die to defeat him. Even if Hitler stayed on the European continent, after defeating the British, he would force us to stay in the Western Hemisphere. He would institute barter trade in Europe that would block us from all foreign trade in the Eastern Hemisphere."

Q. "What do you think will happen if the British win?"

A. "Even if the British win, we are in for a long hard pull. The whole economic structure is being torn down by this war and the job of reconstruction will be the like of which the world has ever seen. In order to trade with the British and other European countries we would have to help them get on their feet. It may be difficult to have order in Europe."

Q. "What do you think it is going to cost us?"

A. "I hate to think, but whatever the cost we must pay in order to preserve our nation and our civilization. It will reach many billions because for a long time we will have to maintain a two ocean navy and a huge standing army."
